A set of "Vote NO" web graphics for the 2018 election. Had I been assigned "Vote YES", I would have matched these in style, but instead utilized greens and turquoises for the background colors.

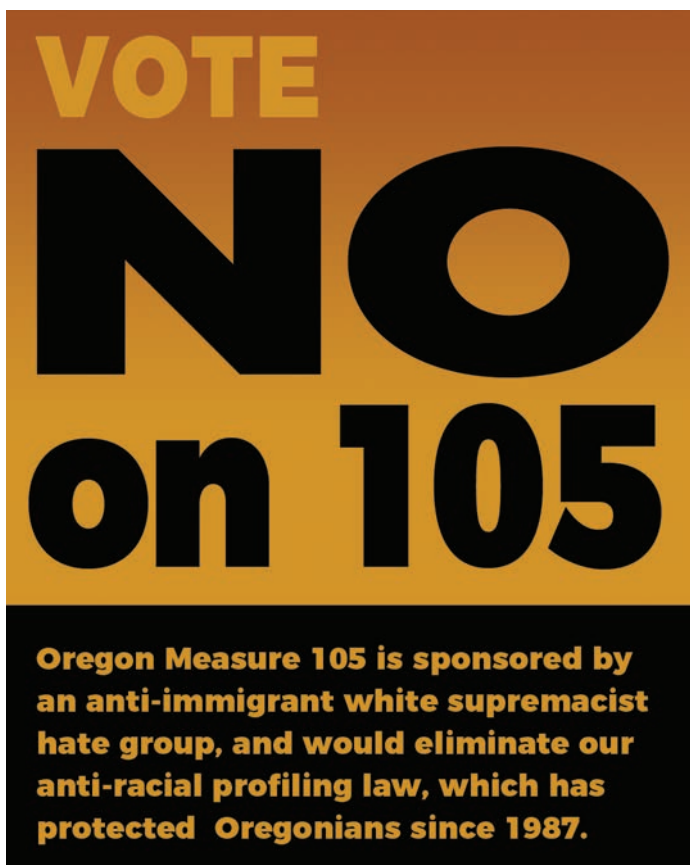

VOTE
NO on 103

There is no tax on groceries in Oregon. Oregon Measure 103 is poorly written, is full of permanent tax loopholes, will damage the state constitution, and is completely unnecessary.

on 104

Oregon Measure 104 makes it difficult to reform or repeal tax breaks and loopholes which might need reforming or repealing. 104 will also jeopardize critical funding for essential services.

on 105

Oregon Measure 105 is sponsored by an anti-immigrant white supremacist hate group, and would eliminate our anti-racial profiling law, which has protected Oregonians since 1987.

on 106

Oregon Measure 106 denies women the right to safe, legal, & critical healthcare, based solely on income and source of income. Measure 106 is both unfair and an extremely dangerous precedent.

Happy Holidays!

and will re-open on January 2, 2019.

We look forward to working with you in the new year.

Thank you for all of the wonderful things that you do.
Together, we are changing the world from the Inside-Out!

"There is power in the collective actions of good people.
Inside-Out lets us find the source of that power.

We do it.

We grow.

We change the world
one class at a time."

A few were originally created for Facebook only.

"Teaching Inside-Out courses have resuscitated and revived my core sense of mission as a teacher. I have grown as a person, as a scholar and perhaps most deeply - as an educator."

- Wade Deisman

University in British Columbia

"The Inside-Out program changed my life.

I truly believe it was the most important class I've ever taken during my college career."

- Outside Student

The Inside-Out Center

"To me, Inside-Out models a way of communicating that is a path forward for America. Inside-Out is about losing your baggage, losing your preconceptions, walking into a space with an open mind and an open heart, ready to listen, ready to share, ready to argue, ready to engage, ready to change minds, ready to have your mind changed, ready to deal with people in a compassionate, empathizing, loving way without losing any of the intellectual rigor that we want to have in the classroom. That to me is a model for communication."

– James Forman Jr.
Yale Law School

"After this class, I'm hopeful.
I'm hopeful in terms
of the changes that can be made.
I've never seen young people who are this motivated to address injustices.
To see that was inspiring
in and of itself."

An inside student from SCI-Laurel Highlands reflects on his encounter with outside students from the University of Pittsburgh - Johnstown

"It's so important that people can talk to and understand each other. What Inside-Out is doing is letting people see each other, and really talk. That's the value of education. Bringing young people into prisons for classes means that they really meet each other. They hear each other's stories and see each other as real people. That's so important in creating justice in this world."

"It's so important that we end the separation between 'us' and 'them' – those labeled 'prisoners,' 'criminals,' 'felons.' It is this separation and demonization of the 'others' and our failure to truly see, hear, and engage with those who have been locked up and locked out that makes it easy for us to remain in deep denial about what we, as a nation, have done. Inside-Out challenges that denial in a powerful way."
